GENERAL GUIDELINES

Language and format

- Please make sure that your text is written in UK English, orthographically and grammatically correct, without typos, and with correct punctuation. Please, make sure that someone checks your article if you do not have an excellent command of the language.
- Please format your main text in Times New Roman 12 pt., 1.5 space, justified.
- Please format your footnotes in Times New Roman, 10 pt., single space, left aligned.
- Words in a language different from the one the article is written in should appear in italics
- Refrain from emphasising words by using bold, italics or underline. Stress your point by using the possibilities of language and its grammar.
- Titles of sections should be indicated by using bold print; titles of subsections by using italics; Do not number sections or subsections.
- Please differentiate between a dash (–) used to indicate an insertion within a phrase or to link two thoughts, and a hyphen (-) used to connect two words or indicate page ranges (e.g. “left-wing party” or “22-33”).
- Do not leave an empty line before a new paragraph.
- Do not use indents.
- Make sure no double empty spaces are left in your text.

Dates and numbers

- Dates should be formatted as follows: 3 June 1996.
- Numbers up to twelve should be written out in full.

Abbreviations

- Please avoid abbreviations in the text as far as possible (“for example” instead of “e.g.”).
- Abbreviations in bibliographical references should be indicated in square brackets when first used:

Ex.: Paul F. Bradshaw, "Kirchenordnungen I", in: Theologische Realenzyklopädie [TRE] (Berlin: de Gruyter 1977) 18, 663-670, here 667.

- Standard abbreviations for biblical books should be used as listed in The Bible, Revised Standard Version, at: http://www.allsaintstupelo.com/Bible_NRSV.pdf, pp. 15-16.

Quotes

- Quotes should be set in double upper quotation marks (“...”). A quote within a quote should be set in single quotation marks (‘...’). Quotes longer than four lines should be indented 0.5 inch/1.27 cm right and left, without quotation marks.
- Variations, elisions, adjustments in quotes should appear in square brackets, e.g. “[...]” or “[H]er”; if you emphasise a part of a citation by putting it in italics, indicate this in square brackets, e.g. “... [emphasis X.Y.]”
- Emphasised words in quotes (in bold or italics) should appear as in the original, and the fact of their emphasis mentioned following the bibliographical information in the footnote by (“emphasis in the original”).
- Errors in quotes, in terms of spelling or content, should be left uncorrected and followed by sic put in square brackets (“[sic]”).

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL REFERENCES

All bibliographical references should appear in footnotes and be numbered subsequently.

Within the main text, footnotes are inserted after punctuation marks:

Ex.: ... as Plaskow argues.¹

Ex.: By pointing out that “the Holy Spirit is with you,”¹ she ...

Ex.: she pointed out that “the Holy Spirit is with you.”¹

General guidelines

- The title of any work quoted must be cited in the language it is published in.
- Quotes in a different language (for example Spanish) should appear in translation into English in the reference, including the translator's name.
- Exact page number(s) should be provided in references; Do not use “f.” or “ff.”
- Abbreviation for unknown author: N.N. – unknown year: s.a. – unknown publishing city: s.l.
